Amalgam Separator

We have recently installed an amalgam separator in the office. In recent decades the debate between placing silver, amalgam, fillings and white, composite, fillings has escalated. The American Dental Association maintains that amalgam fillings are a time tested and ethical treatment for restorations of damaged or destroyed teeth. They do not deny, however that there is mercury present in these fillings. Composite fillings do not contain any mercury therefore more dental offices are switching to this alternative. In January, 2013, the State of Michigan will enact a law that requires all dental offices to install an amalgam separator into their offices. The separator will ensure that excess mercury present in new and old fillings will not be reintroduced into the environment. Although we do not have to have this technology present until 2013, Himm Family Dentistry has decided to install the amalgam separator now in order to be on the forefront of the changing laws.
